Tutankhamun

The kings of Ancient Egypt were called Pharaohs. The most famous Pharaoh was Tutankhamun, who lived more than three thousand years ago. He was very young when he died and he only ruled Egypt for a few years. His body was buried in a tomb near Luxor. All the kings and queens of Egypt were buried on the west bank of the Nile, because then they would face the rising sun. The Ancient Egyptians thought that the sun was a god. Tutankhamun's tomb was filled with beautiful jewels. There were also tables, chairs and beds, which were all made of gold.

All of the Pharaohs were buried in tombs like Tutankhamun's. Most of these tombs were found by thieves and all the treasures were stolen. But thieves did not find Tutankhamun's tomb. Archaeologists were also looking for the tomb, but it was not discovered until 1922. Then a British archaeologist called Howard Carter discovered it. Nothing in the tomb was touched. When the tomb was opened, Carter couldn't believe his eyes. "Can you see anything?" a friend asked him. "Yes," said Carter. "Wonderful things!" Now all these wonderful things can be seen in the Cairo Museum.

Reading Comprehension: Who Made the First Chewing Gum?

Read the following passage and then complete the tasks below:

We all enjoy a good chew now and then, but did you know that chewing gum was first made by the Indians? The chewing gum that was bought and sold in America in the nineteenth century was originally made by the Maya Indian tribe. The ancient Maya chewed a substance called chicle, taken from the sapodilla tree, as a way to quench thirst or fight hunger. It is extracted from the tree, where Farmers make a cut in the trunk of the tree and the liquid that comes out is collected and then dried. Then the gum goes through another process by adding different flavours to make the gum taste better. At that time, only kids and single women were allowed to chew it in public. Married women and widows could chew it privately to freshen their breath, while men could chew it in secret to clean their teeth. Chewing gum was then brought to Europe at the beginning of the twentieth century and it soon became an instant hit. Due to the huge demand, chewing gum was produced in factories, using the same method as the Maya tribe did. These days, chewing gum is flavoured in countless flavours, most common are mint or strawberry. It is sold and enjoyed everywhere and it is bought by both young and old alike.

Answer the following in full sentences:

1. Which tribe made the first chewing gum? _____
2. What is 'chicle'? _____
3. In the beginning, who was allowed to chew gum in public? _____
4. Where is modern gum made? _____

Circle (True) or (False). And then correct all mistakes:

- | | | |
|--|------|-------|
| 1. Chewing gum has been around for years. | True | False |
| 2. It was used to stop hunger and thirst. | True | False |
| 3. Everyone could chew gum in public. | True | False |
| 4. Factories have a different way to make chewing gum. | True | False |
| 5. All ages enjoy eating Chewing gum. | True | False |

Discussion: Do you like eating chewing gum? If yes, which flavour do you like?
